I am a junior developer ready for the industry. Throughout the duration of my education acquiring a Higher Certificate in New Media Development at City Varsity, I excelled due to dedication and hard work. I was raised with integrity and honesty and I have high standards in everything I do.

My professional ambition is to remain versatile and able to fill different roles within a team. I have been learning a legion of technologies across the web, from HTML to PHP and relevant frameworks.

Though I am applying for my first professional position, I have developed several Web applications to showcase my abilities. Six of which are linked below. Though I wish it happened sooner, I have come to form an immeasurable passion for software and development and I am eager to learn more and find my place in an established team.

Thank you for your consideration.
